Mission Statement

We are committed to leading the community problem-solving efforts that improve the quality of life for all citizens of Fayetteville. We will work assertively with the community to address the underlying conditions that lead to crime and disorder.

Fayetteville District Policing Team

Fayetteville District Policing Team is a system of providing police services, in partnership with the community, in order to identify neighborhood quality of life issues and provide appropriate response to those issues by police and other service providers.

Problem-Oriented Policing

Problem-Oriented Policing is a philosophy of police work based on the realization that the majority of police time is spent answering similar calls at the same locations. Officers analyze crime to determine the underlying cause of repeat calls for service, officers then use whatever resources are appropriate in and out of the Department, to solve or better control the problem.

F. O. C. U. S

FOCUS (Focus on Community Using Statistics) is a community problem solving process that serves as an accountability tool for operational commanders. It provides departmental leaders with a constant, visual snapshot of the tactical and strategic crime fighting efforts of the investigative and district commands.

Message from the Chief...

The year 2005 has been an interesting one for the Fayetteville Police Department. On September 30, 2005 more than 43,000 people joined the city. During the year, we learned that more than 15,000 military personnel would be joining the Fort Bragg contingents. While providing police service to our new citizens is a challenge, our troops have met the challenge to successfully accomplish the task.

The Fayetteville Police have been accredited through the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies since 1989. As a result of the hard work of our Accreditation Manager and the leadership within the Service Bureau the Department was re-accredited; and this time with merit.

It would be impossible to recognize all of the men and women who have worked so diligently to make this year a success. However, I would like to give special recognition to the members of the Department's Emergency Response Team who competed in this year's SWAT World Championships. Not only did they again place among the leaders, they also were the highest-ranking part time team in the world. What a tremendous accomplishment!

As we move swiftly into 2006, the Department remains committed to: preventing crime, reducing the fear of crime and successfully apprehending those committing crime. As always, the members of the Department will accomplish those three goals through partnership with the community.

THOMAS D. McCARTHY
Chief of Police

Office of the Chief

Chief McCarthy is a leader in community policing, his unique experience as an administrator and a police chief gives him a broad perspective of how the entire team is responsible for working with the community. Chief McCarthy feels that the commitment exists within Fayetteville's City Government to make community policing a top priority.

Police Attorney

The Police Attorney's office is responsible for representing the Police Department in litigation in both the State and Federal Courts, assisting in internal investigations, addressing citizen concerns, prosecuting nuisance abatement actions, and reviewing departmental policies and procedures, local ordinances and statutes. The attorney also prepares legal bulletins and conducts in-service training and Basic Law Enforcement Training classes.

Office of Professional Standards and Inspections

The Office of Professional Standards was busy during 2005 working with the media, coordinating Ride-Alongs, and conducting and processing investigations for the Police Department as well as other City Departments. Investigations initiated as a result of citizen complaints and departmental investigations decreased while use of force increased.

Investigative Category	2004	2005	Variance
Departmental Investigations	85	83	-2
Citizen Complaints	43	24	-19
Use of Force	71	93	+22
Pursuit Summary	24	15	-9
Vehicle Accident Summary	28	26	-2
Injured Subject Summary	10	5	-5

Departmental Investigations

Departmental investigations are normally initiated by a supervisor and can include vehicle accidents, vehicle pursuits, performance issues, unbecoming conduct, etc. Approximately thirty-nine internal investigations were the result of an officer being involved in a vehicle accident and this contributed by 46% to the internal investigations that were conducted. The number of sustained violations increased in 2005 to 73 from 66 in 2004. More than one violation may have been sustained per case as well as several employees involved in one case may have had a violation sustained. The number of employees exonerated or violations that were unfounded as a result of a departmental investigation was eight. At the writing of this report, nine 2005 departmental investigations were still under investigation or review.

Use of Force Investigations

Use of Force Investigations increased by 22 while five Injured Subject files were completed. An injured subject is defined as a subject who sustains an injury that is not the result of a use of force, injures themselves while fleeing, is injured while in custody not caused by an officers actions, or a subject complains of wrist or ankle soreness due to being restrained. The level of force reported has increased and decreased in different categories of force as reflected in the chart below. Use of firearms by officers does not reflect the number of shootings that occurred but simply means that officers faced situations (drew and pointed their weapon) that could have resulted in the use of deadly force had circumstances and suspect action's occurred differently. There were 15 incidents that resulted in an officer using their firearm. In one situation a suspect was killed and in 10 other situations a vicious dog/animal was shot at or killed while the remaining four were for various other reasons as indicated before.

Level of Force Reported	2002	2003	2004	2005
Hands On/Physical	33	43	30	38
Mace	52	36	27	42
ASP	3	5	0	0
Nova Spirit (stun gun)	7	3	5	3
Taser	3	2	6	6
Firearm	15	10	10	15
K-9	3	2	0	1
Flashlight	0	1	0	0
Sustained Incidents	2	2 	1	0

- * Some incidents reported had more than one level of force that was reported.
-  Does not indicate that a firearm was discharged.
-  One sustained incident was logged improperly as a Departmental Investigation and should have been logged as a citizen complaint of excessive force.

It is difficult to attribute the reason for increases and decreases in force investigations or why some people resist arrest. We do not see a pattern or indication that officers are simply using force excessively or outside the scope of their duties and training. In 2005, there were no Sustained Use of Force Investigations. Use of Force is a causative investigative category that we cannot predict from year to year but we can continue to monitor these investigations to ensure the integrity of the investigative process. At the writing of this report, five 2005 Use of Force investigations were still under investigation or review.

Citizen Complaints

There was a decrease in Citizen Complaint Investigations as well as a decrease in the number of sustained citizen complaints. The number of sustained complaints has decreased from 13 in 2004 to 11 in 2005. We had 13 citizen complaints of excessive force of which one was sustained. Seventy-five Citizen Contact Forms were completed compared to 106 in 2004. Of these, six were related to biased based policing issues (Race/Age/Sex, etc), and the remaining were general complaints. One of the complaints with regard to biased based policing was sustained based on a chain of command evaluation and review. Ten of the citizen contacts resulted in corrective action/constructive counseling and 11 Citizen Complaint Investigations resulted in some type of corrective or disciplinary action. Corrective action could indicate that an individual employee was corrected or a process, practice or procedure was corrected. At the writing of this report, three 2005 Citizen Complaint Investigations were still under investigation or review.

Total police related calls for service in 2005 was 191,191. We consider this number when reviewing the total number of citizen complaints to remind us that the opportunity for complaints is phenomenal compared to the complaint totals for the year based on the number of citizen contacts employees of the Department encounter on a daily basis.

The number of vehicle pursuits decreased from 28 in 2004 to 15 in 2005. Property damage to suspect vehicles decreased from $35,900 in 2004 to $8,250 in 2005. Property damage to police vehicles involved in a pursuit increased from $800 in 2004 to $2,850 in 2005. Other property damage involved increased by $290.

Several time consuming internal administrative investigations were completed at the request of the City Manager.

Our records indicate that approximately 90 Ride-Alongs were approved. Ride-Along participants include citizens, student interns and potential applicants for the position of police officer.

Employee Turnover

Employee turnover and reasons for leaving were tracked by month. The turnover report reflects that turnover increased substantially in 2005. The number of civilian (non-sworn) employees who left during 2005 slightly increased while the number of sworn officers who left increased by eight.

2005 was a high retirement year for employees of the Department. Out of the 73 employees who left the Department, 14 sworn and four non-sworn employees retired. Thirteen employees left the Department for personal reasons, eleven left for career advancement and eight employees left for other reasons. Six resigned while under investigation and four were dismissed. Four employees left due to a spouses transfer, six left for better pay & benefits, two left to be closer to family and one left due to dissatisfaction with the job.

Turnover Figures	2001	2002	2003	2004	2005
Sworn	32	31	32	31	39
Non-Sworn	9	10	15	29	34
Total	41	41	47	60	73

Early Warning System Review

This is the fourth year that we have used the early warning system component of the IA Pro software Internal Affairs Package. Thresholds for each investigative category were set for three with an overall combined category threshold of six. For example, if an employee had two citizen complaints within the most recent twelve month period of time, and a third complaint was entered in the system, an alert message would pop up on the computer screen indicating that the employee had reached the threshold, signaling that a review by the immediate supervisor was needed. The twelve-month period of time is a rolling twelve months that changes as we progress monthly through the year.

Generally, if we see an alert in the Departmental or Citizen Complaint/Citizen Contact category we have greater cause for concern because it is indicative that there is some type of performance or conduct issue occurring that may need to be addressed and corrected. The Use of Force category appears high but as a matter of policy and being an accredited agency, we document and investigate every use of force. We conducted 93 Use of Force investigations during the year and would expect that officers working in high crime areas are going to encounter situations requiring the use of force more frequently than officers working in areas that may have other police problems such as traffic congestion. We will continue to forward all alerts to the respective Division Commanders for review and follow up to ensure that there is not a pattern or problem developing with regard to employee misconduct.

Alert Category	2002	2003	2004	2005
Departmental	3	0	0	1
Citizen Complaints	3	1	2	8
Citizen Contacts	N/A	N/A	24	20
Use of Force	48	41	25	44
Total	54	42	51	73

As to the effectiveness of the system, it appears to be working well in identifying potential problems in a proactive manner as opposed to conducting periodic reviews that would prove to be very time consuming.

Operational Analysis Unit

The Operations and Analysis Unit supports patrol, detectives and police department leaders with analytical information and products relating to crime patterns, trends, suspect identification and requests for information. In 2005, The Operations and Analysis Unit conducted intense study of the featured crimes of Robbery, Residential Burglary, Business Breaking & Entering, Motor Vehicle Breaking & Entering and Motor Vehicle Theft. The resulting products merged Crime Mapping with detailed Featured Crime spreadsheets outlining every aspect of each crime. The Unit also improved Crime Forecasting and Crime Thresholds in 2005, aiding the rapid identification of crime hotspots and the allocation of police resources for crime prevention purposes. The Unit also produced intelligence analysis products to assist with criminal cases.

Community Affairs Office

The Community Affairs Office consists of Crime Prevention Specialists, a Community Relations Specialist, the Homeless Project Officer, the Crime Stoppers Officer and Community Policing Television studio and editing facilities.

Community Relations

Community Relations serves as a liaison between the Police Department and the community by coordinating activities such as department programs, displays, demonstrations, conducting building tours and the semi-annual Citizen's Survey. Other activities include coordinating the annual awards ceremony, semi-annual retiree's meetings, Citizen's Volunteer Program, the Annual Special Olympics Law Enforcement Torch Run and sworn and non-sworn employees of the quarter recognition program.

Crime Prevention

The Crime Prevention Unit takes a proactive approach to crime by educating citizens on various crime prevention topics using Community Watch Programs, safety presentations and organized activities focusing on crime awareness. In 2005, the Crime Prevention Specialists gave presentations about "Stranger Danger" to area schools and daycare centers. They also spoke to organizations and civic groups about topics ranging from home security and personal safety to fraud. Security Surveys are offered to business owners and citizens to help deter breaking and enterings and robberies. High visibility was conducted throughout zones within the city to display police presence. Crime mapping was used to target and evaluate crime trends within the city's zones.

Homeless Project Officer

The Homeless Project Officer assists the homeless in obtaining picture ID's, birth certificates, marriage licenses, shelter, medical care and other services. Photo and data files are maintained for record keeping and to assist other agencies in identifying persons of interest. In 2005, 231 new homeless people were identified in the City of Fayetteville. Trespassing Agreements were continually updated and established as an effective way of dealing with the homeless population. Clothing, blankets, hygiene products and MRE's (Meals Ready to Eat) were provided to the homeless through the Homeless Project. This year the Homeless Officer started Operation ID in which homeless subjects have their picture taken and placed on an ID card that can be used to get assistance when needed.

Crime Stoppers

Crime Stoppers allows citizens to report information concerning a crime and remain anonymous. If the information leads to an arrest, the citizen is eligible to receive a cash reward. The program profiles cases from our department as well as cases from other agencies in the area. In 2005, there were a total of 389 phone calls and 63 web page tips received that lead to 58 Felony Arrests and 26 Misdemeanor Arrests. The Fayetteville Observer continued their partnership with the Crime Stoppers Program and printed a section in the newspaper every two weeks called "Fayetteville's Most Wanted," printing a total of 161 Wanted Subjects, resulting in 67 arrests. Tips led to $28,500 of recovered property and the Crime Stoppers Board approved the sum of $5,670 for rewards.

Community Policing Television

Community Policing Television (CPTV) is used to educate the public regarding crime issues, ways to improve their personal safety and informs Fayetteville residents of current events. Produced within the Community Affairs Office, the thirty-minute program is prepared monthly and airs on a local cable channel. In 2005, CPTV was used by area law enforcement agencies to assist with publicizing information reference unsolved cases.

CPTV is produced and edited in house by the Police Department.

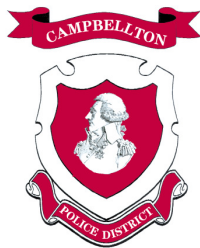

Patrol Operations Bureau

The Patrol Operations Bureau consists of Campbellton and Cross Creek Patrol Districts and the Operations Support Division. The Bureau is responsible for all uniformed patrol activities. The Bureau's goal is to form a close working relationship with the citizens we service by partnering in various problem solving initiatives, reducing crime and the fear of crime.

The districts incurred many changes during the year to include the annexation of over 43,000 citizens in September of 2005. To respond to this change zones were adjusted to best serve all citizens of Fayetteville.

Emergency Response Team

The Department's highly trained Emergency Response Team is responsible for responding to any incident where normally equipped and trained personnel would not be able to effectively and safely resolve the situation because of an excessive level of danger to life, health, or property. The team members are divided into two teams. Each team consists of entry, sniper and perimeter personnel. The officers and supervisors are chosen for the team after an extensive board, fitness test and firearms qualification. The 38-person team is held to higher standards due to the situations they will encounter. The team schedules training each month to maintain their skills and keep up to date with current technological and tactical changes. Over the last two years, the team has trained and met qualifications needed to respond to Weapons of Mass Destruction related events and have developed a response plan to all such emergencies. They work closely with the Fire Department, Cumberland County Sheriff's Office Special Response Team and local Emergency Management. The Emergency Response Team is an integral part of the overall operations of the Police Department.

In April 2005, members of the ERT participated in the 2nd Annual World SWAT Competition. The event was held in Las Vegas, Nevada at the Frontsite Training Facility. After months of hard training, the team placed 6th in the world.

Accreditation

The Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies was formed in 1979 by four major law enforcement membership associations that represent 80% of the law enforcement communities in the United States. The associations are: International Association of Chiefs of Police (ICAP), National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives (NOBLE), National Sheriffs' Association (NSA) and the Police Executive Research Forum (PERF).

The Commission developed a set of standards for law enforcement agencies. As law enforcement agencies voluntarily bring themselves into compliance with these national standards, they demonstrate the professional criteria necessary to be an accredited department. The overall goal of the accreditation program is to improve law enforcement services.

On November 18, 1989, the Fayetteville Police Department became the 122nd law enforcement agency in the nation and the fourth law enforcement agency in North Carolina to achieve the honor of accreditation.

The Department must prove continued compliance by being re-accredited every three years. The Department was awarded meritorious re-accreditation on November 19, 2005.

The Unit operates 24 hours a day, 7 days a week and provides the services necessary to track, file, and efficiently retrieve the volumes of paperwork generated by criminal and traffic investigations. The Department's Legal Process function also operates out of this Unit. The Unit's Teleserve personnel are responsible for taking reports over the phone or in person that do not require the presence of a police officer. Teleserve relieves police officers of minor non-emergency calls, allowing more time to devote to neighborhood crime or nuisance problems, traffic problems, and activities directed specifically toward crime reduction.

The CRU operates the Division of Criminal Information computer systems that allow the Department to enter and retrieve information on wanted person, stolen/recovered property and vehicles, missing/runaway persons, recovered handguns, and allows access to national records through the National Crime Information Center (NCIC). This information plays a vital role in criminal investigations and officer safety. The CRU also researches and provides police reports upon request in compliance with the release of public information laws.

About Uniform Crime Reports

The two crime types in the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) format are referred to as PART I Crime and PART II Crime. Police agencies are required to report crime based on the UCR format to the FBI through their respective states. The UCR Part I Crime classifications are used by the FBI to establish a national crime index, which provides comparative data about crime on a national level.

Part I Crime – These crimes are sometimes referred to as Major Crimes and include the more serious crimes including crimes against persons and crimes against property. The crimes included are: homicide, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny, stolen vehicles and arson.

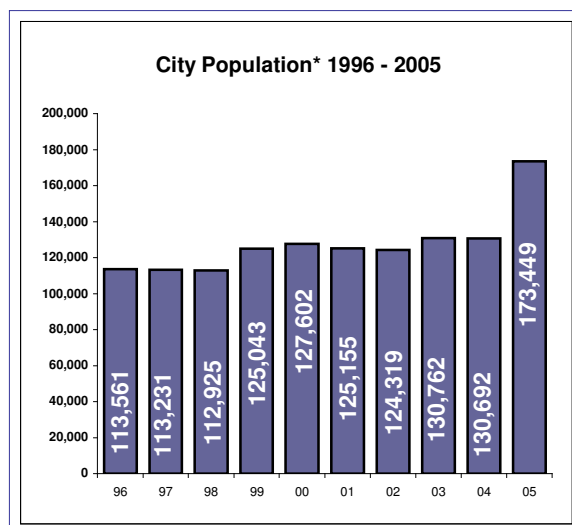

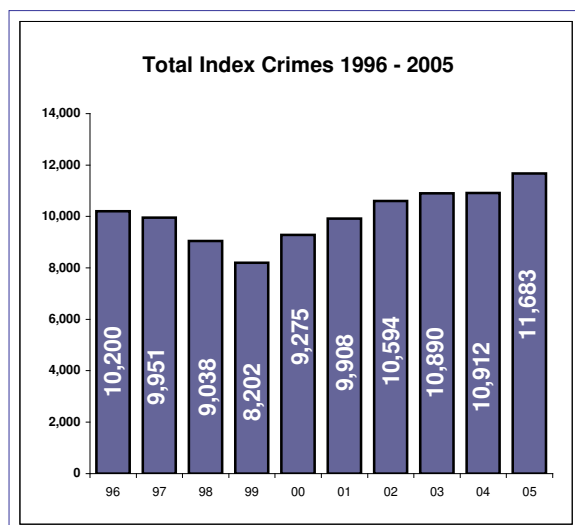

Part II Crime – These crimes include the less serious offenses but still include crime against persons and crimes against property. The crimes included are: other assaults, forgery, fraud, embezzlement, receiving stolen property, vandalism, weapons violations, prostitution, sexual assaults, narcotics and drugs, family violence, drunk driving, alcohol violations, drunk in public, disorderly conduct, and all other crimes.

Many of the statistics in this report reflect UCR data for the calendar years 2004 and 2005 (January 1 through December 31). The UCR program collects information on seven different crime types that make up the Crime Index: four violent crimes (homicide, rape, robbery, and aggravated assault) and three property crimes (burglary, larceny, and motor vehicle theft). All statistics come from Internal Statistics generated from the Fayetteville Police Department's VisionAIR RMS database and the North Carolina Crime Statistics "Annual Summary Report" generated by the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation Division of Criminal Information.

UCR data are limited in that they are measure only those crimes that are reported to the police. Annual changes in the UCR may therefore reflect a real change in the incidence of crime, a change in victims' reporting behavior, or a combination of the two.

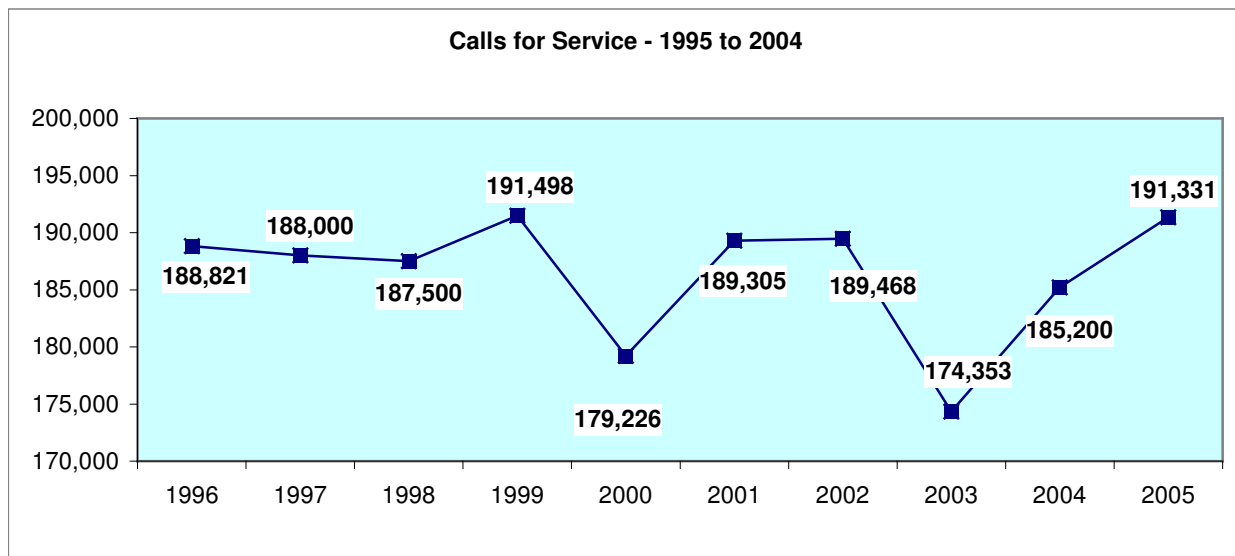

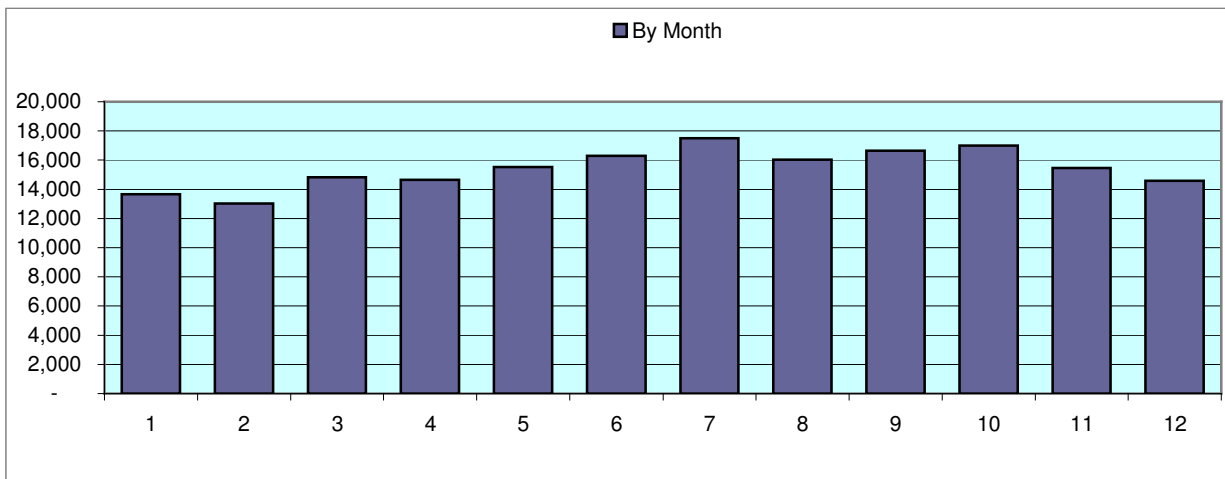

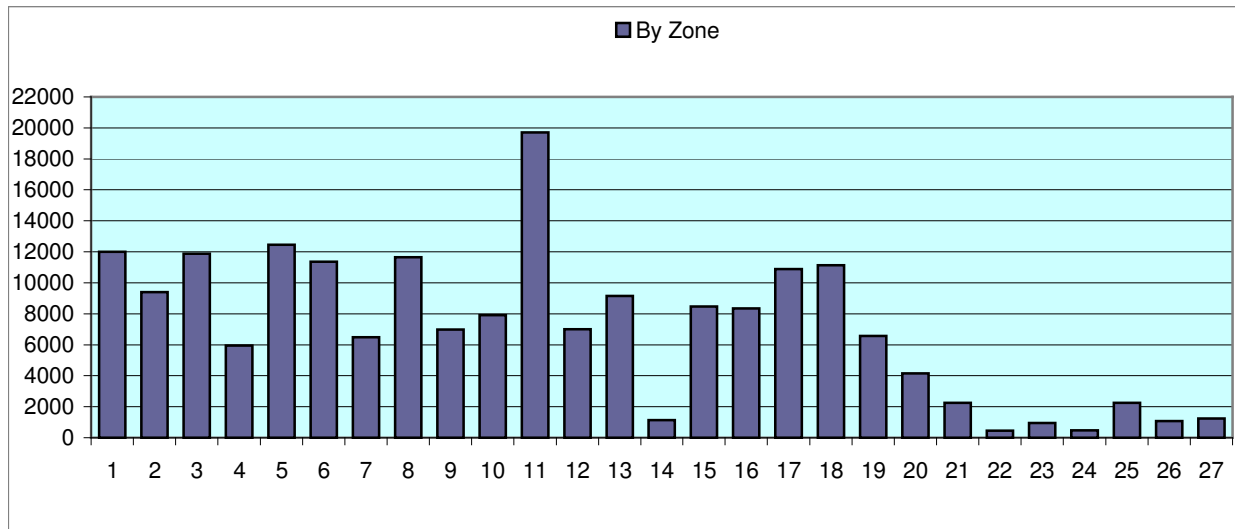

Some of the following statistics presented are based upon the detailed Annual Summary of the 2004 Uniform Crime Reporting Data dated June 2005. This information is available through the SBI website at <http://www.ncsbi.gov/>.

In September of 2005, over 43,000 citizens were annexed into the City of Fayetteville. The statistics represented on the following graphs represent zones as of September 2005. Some zone statistics may be skewed due to the City only having three months of crime data on newly annexed locations.
